CLARENDON.

REMOVAL.

The offices of the Daily and Weekly British Colonist have been removed to Smith's Building, Government street, where orders may be left.

From Omineca and Skeena River.

By the Otter yesterday from Nanaimo arrived Messrs Peter Davis, John A. Fraser, Alex McDonald, James Smith, John Sunderland, Robert Nelson, John McIntosh and Donald McKelvey, who came down from Skeena River in a canoe to Nanaimo. The party have all been to Omineca, and left there to come down on the 28th June. Only four claims on Vitale creek were paying small wages. A small piece of ground below the Discovery claim paid nine ounces in one day, but after that the yield became very light. Silver is frequently found in the diggings mixed with the gold. Between Tatlah Landing and the Creek some horizontal quartz veins are seen; but none have been discovered on Vitale creek. Nation 1 river is being prospected by Alex Fraser and party. No mining was being done on Findlay Branch or Peace River. About 150 miners remain in the country. McMartin, McMillan and other old prospectors having bottomed their shafts obtained not even the color, although the ground was likely looking. The Adair company had not bottomed when the party left to come down Cariboo and deer abound in the country, and a few grouse were shot. The weather at Vitale creek was disagreeable; light rains fell frequently and frost was still in the ground. On the 24th of June a foot of snow fell on the mountains surrounding Vitale creek. The trip from Vitale to the Forks of the Skeena can be made in six days; and our informants are of opinion that it good diggings be struck on Vitale creek, the trip from Victoria to the mines may be made in 10 or 11 days. The party prospected the Skeena bars and found only a few fine colors—nothing to pay. A good prospect was found on a small stream that empties into Babine River. On this creek Wm Madden and Edward Donovan were known to have prospected in June, and a few days before our informants left the river Indians came down from the creek and stated that Madden and Donovan had disappeared from their camp. One of the Indians wore a pair of pants and boots resembling those worn by William Madden in June last, and it is feared that both men have been killed. The party stayed four days at Simpson. A German party comprising 15 men are on their way down in a canoe and will arrive, probably, to-day. The weather along the coast was rainy. No trading vessels were met. Mitchell, Moss and Holt remained on Skeena waiting to hear from Madden and others. Another party are out prospecting between Naas and Skeena Rivers.

FORT CARLETON [erroneously printed Carleton in the dispatches] lies on the Saskatchewan River in latitude 53°, about 450 miles N.W. of Fort Garry. It was officered by Donald McDonald, a trader, and four or five other Hudson Bay Company's employees with their families. The Blackfeet, who are reported to have murdered McDonald and pillaged the place, are the Ishmaelites of America and are a terror to the tribes of Indians inhabiting the Northwest Territory and Montana. A few years ago a part of the tribe raided into Kootenay and drove off a number of horses, property of the Kootenay Indians. It is thought by the Company's officers here that the robbers were but poorly repaid for their trouble, because the stock of goods on hand at Carleton is always low in summer and the stock of furs had been packed to Fort Garry. Four or five years ago McDonald was shot by Indians at the Fort, but escaped with a broken arm.

SPREADING INFORMATION.—California and Oregon are engaged in the laudable work of spreading broadcast information of their resources, climate, &c. Messrs John T. Little & Co [whom Victorians] real estate dealers, have sent us a pamphlet of 120 pages which contains a well written paper prepared for the California Immigrant Union, several maps, a railway guide and other valuable information. Mr Joshua Davies, on his way through Portland, Oregon, the other day, was handed a pamphlet of 60 pages on 'Oregon and its advantages as an agricultural and commercial State.' To spread information and to build a young country up there is nothing like printer's ink. When will our Government discover that fact.

NANAIMO and Mr. DeCosmos.—It is rumored that Mr DeCosmos' constituents in District No 2 having intimated that they have had enough of his statecraft, he is about to offer himself for the Black Diamond District. The honorable gentleman would make a splendid representative of fossils or to crops, or principles and issues that are dead and buried, or anything that is put away out of sight; but when you want a real fresh, live man, with snap and go and vim in him—one who can keep pace with the Canadian Pacific Railway in thought and action—you must look elsewhere. DeCosmos won't fill the bill. He belongs to the age of oxtails and slow-coaches.

THE PRINCESS ROYAL.—This H. B. Co's bark, now due from London at Victoria, was spoken July 20th in lat. 37° 21' N, lon. 130° 30' W by a vessel which has arrived at San Francisco. The bark's position was nearly opposite San Francisco, and as it is now three weeks since she was spoken, and has not yet arrived, it is reasonable to suppose that she is lying somewhere off the Strait—unable to enter in consequence of the smoke.

GROUSE SHOOTING commenced yesterday and the adjacent woods were filled with sportsmen popping off the birds, which are numerous. Before nightfall, it was estimated that 300 pairs had been brought to town.

FIRE ALARM.—A display of red light at the Circus last evening caused a temporary illumination of that part of Johnson street and drew out the firemen.

New Westminster Items.—The election for Municipal Councillors took place on Monday and Messrs E. Brown, W. Blackie, W. Fisher, W. J. Armstrong, D. Withrow, O. Major, H. Elliott, L. Bonson, Dr. Black, Wm. Clarkson and R. M. Rylatt were chosen. A cow belonging to Mr J. Murray of Sapperton was shot dead and parties are suspected. Mr J. A. Webster was elected Chief of the New Westminster Fire Department.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.—Hon Mr Holbrook has written a letter to the Canadian News of London, in which he reiterates his confidence in the practicability of the Railway, and engineers it down the valley of the Fraser to New Westminster. The letter is well written.

FROM THE RIVER.—The steamer Enter price arrived from New Westminster yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, bringing Messrs J. Cunningham, J. Rogers, H. Nelson and Capt. McRea, McCullough and Insley, Miss Insley and a few others. The news is unimportant.

METEOLOGY.—Mr John Parker of Metehosin reports that the fires have mostly died out. Sangster's Plains were burned over and some timber destroyed along the trail; Lawrence & Fisher's crops were saved by dint of hard work.

THE CIRCUS.—The children's benefit at the circus last evening drew together a good house. Many new acts were produced, and the young beneficiaries testified their gratitude by performing several daring feats.

THE STEAMER OTTER, Capt. Lewis, arrived in Esquimalt harbor at ten o'clock on Tuesday night and came round to this harbor yesterday afternoon. She brought coal from Nanaimo and Company's goods from Esquimalt.

BENEFIT OF THE SCHOOLS.—The local board of education have accepted the tender of a benefit by the Circus Troupe, and to-morrow evening is set for the performance. The proceeds will be dedicated towards completing the Boy's School. Eight acts never before performed in this Colony will be performed.

THANK YOU.—We tender our thanks to Purser Pope of the steamship Idaho, and Mr M. O'Connor of Wells Fargo & Co., for important favors.

LOADING.—The H. B. Co's ship Lady Lamson was loading at the London Docks for Victoria on the 14th July.

THE BRITISH ADMIRALTY, carrying out the rigid system of economy, now writes its orders on half instead of whole sheets of paper.

PRIVATE DISPATCHES.—A great budget of private dispatches came through yesterday, having been detained en route by the fire.

ADMIRAL YELVERTON succeeds Admiral Milne as Admiral of the Mediterranean Fleet.

Letter from San Francisco.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE "COLONIST."

SAN FRANCISCO, August 4th, 1870.

The agitation on the Chinese question has at length assumed a decidedly belligerent phase. At the commencement of last month the knights of St Crispin, an association of shoemakers with Maurice V. Carey as President, called a meeting of laboring men to discuss the all important topic, and the answer to the invitation was a mile of banners and transparencies, the largest hall in the city crowded almost to suffocation and hundreds of people unable to obtain admittance. Carey took the chair, and after assuring the assembly that he was prepared to dispute every inch of ground, burn every blade of grass, and that the last intrenchment of liberty should be his grave, moved that the six Chinese companies should be informed that it was not safe for the Chinese to continue coming the United States and that they be requested to give such notice to the public authorities of the Chinese Empire. In compliance with this resolution an open letter was addressed to the six Chinese companies calling attention to the strong anti-Chinese feeling that existed in California, and warning them as representative Chinamen, that the flame of dissatisfaction had almost resolved a point almost beyond Government control, and that although Carey and his colleagues counseled moderation, their voice for peace would scarcely be heard in the shouts of an excited populace. The Chinese have not yet replied to this cool assumption of authority, but have addressed a letter to the President and Secretary of State, enclosing a copy of the communication and setting forth in extenso the manner in which Chinamen are treated here by a portion of the white residents, and calling upon them for the protection guaranteed by existing treaties between China and the United States. In addition a convention of Chinese is shortly to be held, when delegates from various parts of the coast will be present, and the Chinese question thoroughly discussed from the Chinese standpoint. To glance through a file of city papers for the last month, one would think that Maurice V. Carey was going to be the 'coming man.' What with presiding at last meetings, organizing military companies for Chinese onslaught, getting up anti-Confucius washing societies, and attending in addition to the various other duties that devolve on him as a good Chinaman, his time must be pretty well employed. His name is not yet coupled with Congressional aspirations, though his disinterested anxiety for the public good would lend such a supposition.

Two first-class hotels, three restaurants and fifteen or twenty saloons have either voluntarily closed out business within the last ten days or fallen victims to the sheriff's hammer. Even the What Cheer House, that grand resort for the distressed in pocket of all nations, has felt the necessity for retrenchment, and the Library and Reading Room in the rear, where lovers of a literary turn for years did congregate, has been shut up, and a melancholy looking 'To Let,' in the side window bears testimony of the dullness of the times. The cheap restaurants have reduced their prices to the lowest limits of possibility. Ham and eggs 15c, green turtle soup 10c, bottle of wine and best steak 20c; are the ruling rates for those luxuries, but even these epicurean inducements fail to crowd the tables. Another sign of the long continued depression is the number of dry goods stores that have gone into the alarming sacrifice business. Until lately dealers scorned such tricks of trade, but now dollars are so scarce that every possible means are used to attract attention and 'Bankruptcy! Bankruptcy!! Fire! Fire!! Fire!!' 'Goods at Half Cost!' and other similar announcements of fictitious calamity by fire and flood are posted in half the windows. Someone has taken the trouble to count the number of houses and stores that are to let and says the total reaches 2,255. As the number of buildings within the Municipal limit is officially reported at 19,055, it shows that more than one out of every nine is unoccupied. In about three weeks the San Francisco census will be completed and it is stated that the result will reduce our dignity. We have lately claimed a population of 175,000 and thought we lived in a fast growing city, but Uncle Sam's enumerators declare that our calculation is about 50,000 wide of the mark and that including Chinese San Francisco does not contain more than 125,000 souls. Looking for a moment that the weekly death rate is only about 60, the improbability of such a small mortality in a population of 175,000, is at once manifest and ought to be of itself sufficient evidence that we have been mortgaging the future for our statistics. Even 125,000 is an increase of more than 100 per cent since last census, and to double in ten years is not so bad. Anyhow we can spare several thousand without hurting the prosperity of the city, as the place is much too crowded for the work and business done in it.

George Francis Train, the gentleman who has so solemnly sworn to free Ireland, 'and so help me God I will,' inflicted four more lectures on us last week as San Francisco's further share of the one thousand series while on his way to the White Horse. His special holiness this time was an appeal to the Irish to seize the Zealons, and then by her aid to destroy the rest of the British fleet in the Pacific. He is off for a ninety days trip round the world. So we are rid of him for four months at least.

The excitement respecting the recent lottery has almost died away and we hear very little of it now. The tickets are not selling so fast as the managers expected. 74,000 yet remaining on hand. There is very little probability that the drawing will take place at the advertised date, but holders of chances need not get dispondent, as it is certain to take place sometime between now and November. Everything has, so far, been conducted with the utmost fairness, and it is only the scarcity of coin that has prevented a ready sale of all the tickets. The wheels for the drawing were on exhibition last week and they are models of mechanical ingenuity. One of these will contain the 200,000 numbers, stamped on balls like the other, the 625 prizes, done up in 625 boxes alike. If No. 72 for instance, is drawn from the 200,000 wheel then the box taken from the 625 wheel will be its prize. By this arrangement no one can tell the amount drawn until it is shown to the audience.

The good people have not been so excited since the closing days of the rebellion as they were on receipt of the news that war had been declared by France against Prussia. The newspaper and telegraph offices were quickly surrounded by clamorous crowds eager for the least scrap of intelligence, and each man for a moment forgot his own struggle for existence in contemplating the greater struggle of armed nations. The sympathy of our local press and population is decidedly in favor of Prussia. Napoleon being in but small favor with either American or European residents. One effect of the impending struggle is already visible in the sudden development of a swarm of news boys who make the streets ring with their extras. 'All about the great war between France and Prussia,' and another, is the occurrence of personal remonstres between the corner grocery adherents of the rival powers. To express an opinion that the French can whip the Prussians is a casus belli in any larger beer saloon in the city, and to disparage the military powers of France is considered an hostile challenge by any son of Gaul in the community. The commercial developments thus far have been a complete stoppage to business in the wheat market, an advance in the price of all kinds of French goods and the charter of the ship Ellen Munroe to carry 2000 tons of coal to the French Government vessels stationed at Tahiti.

The Officers of the Zealous gave a pleasant party last week aboard the ship. General Ord and the Officers of the U. S. Army and Navy at present stationed here, the Mayor and civil dignitaries and about 200 others, ladies and gentlemen, accepted the proffered hospitality, and were conveyed to the big ship by a Government dispatch boat placed at the disposal of Captain Hume for that purpose by the authorities. It was a daylight dance, commencing soon after noon, and with the intermission of an hour for lunch or dinner was kept up until evening. The guests left at seven o'clock giving three cheers for Admiral Farquhar and their entertainers, and evidently much pleased with the hearty British welcome they had received.

A Panorama of California has proved a popular hit. The proprietor talks of visiting British Columbia to paint a few of its scenes on canvas and then going East with 'Pictures of the Pacific.'

Amongst the late departures for England since my last letter are C. Clark and F. V. Lee. The latter joins Mrs. Thomas, a Winchester, and will assist in the management of her late husband's hotel business there.

Horrors of Baby Farming in England.

The business of baby-farming is presenting itself in England in the most horrible manner forcing a slow and tardy movement on the part of the authorities to break up its worst developments. It is evident, from constantly occurring circumstances that the terrible revelations on the same subject made at France a year ago could be quite equalled by a full statement of what goes on at the English baby-farms. Within a few weeks past, no less than sixteen dead infants have been found in one locality, the product of a single baby-farming establishment at Brixton. The police pick them up by the roadside; children at play find them hidden under brush and wood, and the bodies of the murdered innocents are discovered thrown about everywhere. Even burial is too expensive. A strip of an old gown, tied about the lithe corpse, the whole wrapped in brown paper, makes the sickening bundle. The coroners complain of the amount of work which this crime imposes upon them; but, as yet there has been no effectual attempt made to suppress the business. One woman is now in jail to await trial on a charge connected with baby-farming, but the desertion of dead infants from the various establishments continues with the same frequency. There is no evidence that these babies are poisoned or killed outright, as in the case of the French nurses; but starvation and neglect seem to be the causes of their death. It is a system whose full horrors are not appreciated here, but one of which the English authorities will have to eliminate before they can call themselves civilized.

A CHANCE FOR BARGAINS IN CLOTHING.—A. Gilmore, Yates street, near Government, has commenced to sell off his entire stock of ready-made clothing at cost, to close out that branch of his business, as he intends to confine his attention to MERCHANT TAILORING. Garments of every description made to order in the most fashionable styles at greatly reduced prices.

The Prussian Needle-Gun.

Mr W Von Doehin, of Chicago, gives to the Tribune of that city the following description of the celebrated Prussian needle-gun:

1. The range of the needle-gun is from twelve hundred to fourteen hundred yards, and not four or five miles.
2. The movements of loading are executed with the right hand, as follows: An upward stroke with the palm of the right hand against the chamber knob opens the breech, the cartridge is inserted into the cavity of the barrel, a push forward and a downward stroke of the chamber knob with the right hand closes the breech, and another push on needle chamber (with the spiral nose spring) completes the loading, and the rifle is ready for 'fire.' During the whole movement the gun is held with the left hand, at a 'ready.'

3. The gun is never loaded or re-loaded while at aim, simply because it is impossible to do so.
4. The powder is not ignited at the rear end of the cartridge, but next to the ball, where the igniting matter is placed in a kind of socket of paper-mache; and this is what gives more powder to the ball, the powder burning from the front to the rear.

5. The cartridge is made up—ball in front, ball socket with igniting matter, powder. The shape of the ball resembles the shape of a cucumber, and is called long-lead (lang ble).
6. The recoil of the gun is only felt when it becomes very much heated and the air-chamber-filled with the refuse of powder. When clean no recoil is felt at all.

7. In case the needle should break, or bend, or otherwise become useless, a new one can be inserted in less than five seconds; each soldier carries an extra supply of about six needles.
It is not so much the superiority of the needle-gun over the other breech-loaders which has secured, and in all probability will, in the present struggle, secure success to the Prussian army, as it is the thorough education of each individual soldier, and his perfect familiarity with his weapon.

The needle-gun was first used in Prussia in 1848 and in 1849 in Baden and Schleswig, and not being deemed effective without an entire change of tactics, and especially of skirmish instruction, was almost condemned.
The Prussian army has but one caliber for all small arms, so that infantry or sharpshooters can be supplied with cartridges from cavalry pistols, or carbine cartridge wagon.

Did Clarendon Lend Napoleon Money?

Atropos of the death of Lord Clarendon the Figaro publishes a story about him and the Emperor, which is probably true in part and which certainly did the Emperor no discredit. It was to the effect that Louis Napoleon while he was President of the Republic and just before he made himself Emperor, went to Lord Clarendon and asked him to lend him $20,000. Clarendon didn't mind and lent him the money. Afterward, when the villany was accomplished and the President was become Emperor, Napoleon repaid the money and asked Clarendon if he should pay him interest. 'Oh, never mind the interest,' said Clarendon, 'we will see about that some other time.' And Figaro went on to say that the interest when it was asked for proved to be the French (Cobden-Chavallier) treaty—the treaty which just now both English and French seem to be vying with each other to deny. Will you believe it? For publishing the story the Figaro was cited to appear—in the person of its editor, Monsieur de Villameussant—before the Correctional Police to answer to the charge of having committed an offence against the person of the Emperor! When one thinks of what Villameussant is and what the Figaro is the joke seems too prodigious to believe Villameussant who though a Legitimist has been of late so slavish an advocate of the Empire that it has been freely said everywhere he was pensioned by the Government—Villameussant who has ridiculed the Republicans and laughed and jeered when they were fired and imprisoned under the infamous laws of the press—Villameussant has a turn now, and much may he enjoy it. He cries in print like a whipped schoolboy and to revenge himself published the other day a stupid number of his journal containing nothing but a summons to appear before the police and a long history of the two attempts made at Strasbourg and Boulogne by the Emperor when he was Prince Louis Napoleon—a twice or twenty times told tale that is familiar in all its details to every schoolboy in Paris. Besides this dull recital which was inserted merely to spite the Emperor, there was not a word in the paper and it must have proved rather a dry morsel to the admirers of the Figaro's snail stories and silly gossip.—N.Y. Tribune.
